

"We're talking about practice"

(thanks to Allen Iverson)

We consume ourselves
with practice,
preparation,
creating linear time.
But we are forever and always
arrived,
awakened,
in singularity.
If Peace is the goal,
why beat around the bush?
When we send warriors,
Why do we send the fighters?
Send those that have transcended
preparation.
Send those that have already arrived.
Send Peace itself.
